Virginians are overcoming frustrating group meetings and discovering how to build a discussion process that leads to productive conversations and decision-making. Become one of these agents of change... complete the Strengthening Your Facilitation Skills Training

Virginia Cooperative Extension faculty are ready to work with you and others to foster these skills through interactive training workshops - designed for anyone that plans and runs meetings and facilitated discussions.

During the Strengthening Your Facilitation Skills (SYFS) training, participants practice newly learned facilitation skills in an experiential setting, observe facilitation challenges, and identify practices that will prepare each person to develop and guide the facilitation process. Those who completed the program reported that after participation, "you will feel more comfortable planning and leading meetings."
